Sacred Connections

Three Evenings of SoulTending

Space for breathing,
opening, grounding,
re-membering,
reconnecting to the Sacred within and holding all

Come end the week well, making sacred connections ... with your Self, others, with the Compassionate Love deep within & beyond holding us all

Both time slots for each evening will be limited to 24 participants.

Registration with donation secures a place for you.

SOUL TENDING DETAILS

Set aside a Friday evening in each of 3 months (February, March, April) 4-5:30p OR 7-8:30p PST for some soul tending. In the midst of many facets of tiredness, grieving, and growing edges these days, come together with others for some regrounding, reopening & resetting for your ongoing work in the world. Poetry & song, silence and images, self & shared reflection will be some of what guides us home to the Sacred both within, and holding all.

"Old Maps Don't Work" - February 19th

A poem by Joyce Rupp will serve as the centerpiece for getting in touch with our losses and/or sense of lostness these days, as well as the holy resilience that resides within for every season. Weaving poetry with chant, silence, self and shared reflection will fill & send us well fed.

Music as Gateway to the Sacred - March 19th

An earthy chant will serve as the central vehicle for slowing our breath & be-ing, reconnecting us to who and whose we are, & showing us what needs attention or to be heard in us right now. Contemplative listening with others deepens all for living into more of who we are for the world.

Cost is donation on a sliding scale:

$10-$20 for 1 eve or $25-$55 for all three. If this is unrealistic for you, please contact me.

Location: Zoom / link sent the day before

Cradled in Creation - April 16th

A guided meditation as the sound of the ocean undergirds and washes over us ... the sound of creation breathing calls us home to the Source of our Life and all life, will serve as the central vehicle for re-grounding and re-opening, enlivening and renewing tired/grieving spaces.
